PREFACE.

ALTHOUGH the Board of Trade and other Government Departments issue yearly valuable volumes of statistical abstracts, they contain usually only the returns for fifteen years or less previous to their publication. Reports on special subjects giving more extended statistical tables on the matters with which they are particularly concerned have also been submitted from time to time to the Houses of Parliament, but it is often difficult to discover statistical returns in consecutive form covering any long period. It is thought, therefore, that a series of selected tables going back to the end of the Napoleonic wars, or as far as statistics for each table are obtainable, forms a necessary supplement to the Historical Review contained in the first volume of this work and will also be useful as a book of reference to those who are interested in the economic movements of our time.

In the selection of the tables the Editor has had the benefit of the advice of Sir William Ashley, who has always been ready to assist in the solution of difficulties and in passing the proofs through the press. The Editor desires to express his deep debt of gratitude for this help. He wishes further to thank Mr. A. J. Eagleston, of the Home Office, Mr. Percy Ashley, of the Board of Trade, Mr. R. H. Hooker, of the Board of Agriculture, Mr. Robert Holland Martin, Hon. Sec. of the London Clearing House, and Mr. G. C. Lloyd, Secretary of the Iron and Steel Institute, for information and advice, the High Commissioners of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa for the use of the Year Books issued under the direction of their respective Governments, and Mr. Emile Garcke, and the Electrical Press for permission to make use of statistical matter relating to electrical works in the Manual of Electrical Undertakings.

The Editor wishes also to acknowledge the assistance he has had in the compilation and adaptation of these tables from Miss Edith M. Kirke, whose indefatigable zeal and methodical care have added to the utility and ensured the accuracy of the work.

The tables have been compiled or adapted almost wholly from Parliamentary Papers, by permission of the Controller of H.M. Stationery Office, for whose courtesy the Editor desires to express his thanks.

For the Union of South Africa the census was not taken until 1904 on account of the war in 1901. For Mauritius the increase for 1861 is due to immigration from India and that for 1881 to the inclusion of dependencies. For Newfoundland the returns from 1881 include Labrador.

Since 1904 the classification called "Consignments" has been adopted, whereby imports and exports are shown as coming from or going to the countries from or to which they are actually consigned, which is usually the place of their production or final destination.
	(2) The values of imports are calculated on their cost plus insurance and freight, or when consigned for sale the latest sale value of the goods. The basis of valuation of imports has been from 1815 to 1854 the official values, from 1854 to 1871 the computed real values, and from 1871 onward the declared values. The values of exports represent the cost, including all charges up to the time of delivery on board ship. The basis of valuation for exports has been throughout the declared value.

GENERAL NOTES.

STATISTICAL TABLES.

1. THE FINANCIAL YEAR : For the United Kingdom until 1853 the financial year ended on 5th January; for 1853-4 it ended on 5th April (covering 15 months); and from 1854-5 onward it has ended on 31st March. For India before 1867 it ended on 30th April, and after that date on 31st March. For Canada before 1906 it ended on 30th June, and after that date on 31st March. For Australia before 1902 it ended at a different date in each State, but after 1901 30th June was adopted for the Commonwealth. For New Zealand it ended after 1894 on 31st March. For South Africa from 1891 to 1909 it ended on 30th June, in 1910 on 30th May, and from 1911 on 31st March. For most of the smaller Colonies the year ended on 31st March.

2. CONVERSION OF BUSHELS TO QUARTERS : Where it has been found necessary to convert bushels of grain to quarters in order to obtain uniformity in these Tables, the bushel has been taken at 60 lbs. for wheat, 50 lbs. for barley, and 39 lbs. for oats, in accordance with the Corn Returns Acts.

3. TABLES OF PRODUCTION : Where the figures for production are not available those for domestic exports have been given.

4. INDEX NUMBERS : For the purpose of comparing quantities which cannot be directly measured, such for instance as prices and wages, the plan of Index Numbers has been adopted. By this method a particular year (in these Tables the year 1900) is selected as a standard year, the average price, rate, or other quantity of the subject of the Table for that year is entered at 100, and the numbers before and after represent the percentages above or below the price, rate or other quantity of the standard year in the years opposite to which the numbers are placed. Thus in Table No. 116 the price of coal in 1871 is shown to be 58.3 per cent. of the price in 1900. In determining the price, rate or other quantity for each year the average for that year is used, and in cases where a number of selected commodities have to be taken a weighted number is adopted which is obtained by assigning a degree of importance or weight to each commodity.

5. LATEST RETURNS : As far as possible the latest returns of the several Departments have been used, for it must be remembered that the returns are amended and corrected from time to time as additional information comes to hand.

6. DEFINITIONS OF TERRITORIAL HEADINGS : The Tables should be used with the Chronicle of the British Empire beyond the Seas in Vol. I., Appendix III.

Australia includes all districts now in the Commonwealth of Australia, namely, New South Wales, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, Victoria, and Western Australia.

British East Africa includes East Africa Protectorate (with Zanzibar), the Protectorates of Uganda and Somaliland.

British South Africa before 1903 comprised the Cape of Good Hope and Natal, after 1910 the Union of South Africa, namely, the Cape of Good Hope, Natal, the Orange Free State, and the Transvaal.

British West Africa includes the Gold Coast, Sierra Leone, Gambia, and Nigeria.

Canada comprises the Dominion of Canada, namely, Quebec, Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edwards Island, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, British Columbia and Vancouver Island, Yukon Territory and North West Provinces.

Central America includes the States of Guatemala, Honduras, San Salvador, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica.

East and Central Africa includes Nyasaland or British Central Africa and East Africa Protectorate (with Zanzibar), the Protectorates of Uganda and Somaliland.

South African High Commission includes Basutoland, Bechuanaland, Swaziland, and Rhodesia.

GENERAL NOTES.

South America includes such of the States in South America as produce the commodities dealt with in the Table.

Straits Settlements. - Labuan was created a separate settlement in 1912, but is usually included in the Tables relating to the Straits Settlements. After 1894 the Federated Malay States are included.

West Coast of Africa comprises such parts of West Africa as are not included in the German, French, and Portuguese Possessions and the Congo Free State.

West Indies signifies British West Indies, including the Bahamas.

7. The returns for European countries have been adapted as far as the details are available to represent the States existing in 1914 and include the dependencies of such States.

8. FIGURES IN THOUSANDS: In the majority of the tables included in this volume the figures are given to the nearest thousand, 500 and over being reckoned as a thousand and 499 and under being unaccounted for. The tables in which this method is adopted have at the head of each column the figures 000's preceded by £, Qrs., Tons, &c., as the case may be. Thus the number 1,437 in such a table represents 1,437,000.

GENERAL HISTORICAL NOTE.

There were formerly three branches of customs, namely: export duties on wool and leather; an import duty on each ton of wine, hence called tonnage; and an ad valorem duty, usually at 5 per cent., known as poundage, on each pound in value of other goods, both imported and exported.¹

The Act for Tonnage and Poundage of 1660² consolidated all the previous Acts and reimposed tonnage on wine and a 5 per cent. ad valorem poundage duty on other goods, the values of which were fixed by a Book of Rates.

The practice of mortgaging the national revenues as security for public loans, which came into use at the end of the seventeenth century, necessitated the frequent imposition of additional duties on specified articles as the number of loans constantly increased. Thus a most complicated system of tariffs arose, under which in some instances one imported article was liable to as many as ten different duties.³ To simplify the confusion thus caused Pitt introduced a Bill which was passed in 1787,⁴ whereby one rate was levied on each of the 1,414 articles or subdivisions of articles on which custom was then chargeable.

Free intercourse of trade and navigation between England and Scotland was provided by the Act of Union of 1707,⁵ but with regard to Ireland a duty of 10 per cent. was continued on 17 articles imported from one country to the other, after the Union in 1801 till the commercial union in 1823.⁶

No sooner were Acts of consolidation and codification passed than the imposition of fresh duties again threw Pitt's scheme into a state of confusion,⁷ and it was not until 1825 that the customs' laws were adequately codified. Under the Act passed at that date⁸ over 1,100 customs Acts then in force were repealed, "thus sweeping away all the laws of the customs accumulated during the space of 550 years."⁹

In 1842 Sir Robert Peel began his commercial reforms. It appeared by the Custom House accounts for 1840 that from the 190 principal articles enumerated, over 93 per cent. of the duties was collected on 18 articles, namely, tea, sugar, molasses, tobacco, spirits, wine, timber, coffee, cotton wool, butter, tallow, silk, currants, sheeps' wool, corn, raisins, seeds, and cheese.¹⁰ The principles underlying Peel's scheme were the removal of prohibitions and relaxation of prohibitory duties; the reduction of duties on raw materials so that none should exceed 5 per cent.; the reduction of duties upon partially manufactured articles so that they should not exceed 12 per cent.; the reduction of duties on manufactured articles to a rate not exceeding 20 per cent.; and the reduction of duties upon colonial produce.¹¹ This was followed in 1845 by the first free trade Act, whereby the duties on such important articles as hemp, iron, flax, raw silk, hides, indigo, wool, skins and furs, oils, and saltpetre, and on over 400 other less important articles, which brought in little revenue, were abolished.¹² In the following year the duties on corn were reduced.¹³ By another Act in this year imported animals, bacon, beef, pork, potatoes, and various sorts of cotton, wool and silk were freed from duty, and the duties on about 100 other articles were reduced.¹⁴

In 1853 the duty on tea was reduced from 2s. 2½d. a pound to 1s. 10d., and was to be further reduced yearly till it reached 1s. in 1856. The duties on 13 other articles of food, including apples, cheese, cocoa, nuts, eggs, oranges and lemons, butter, and raisins, and on some 133 minor articles were reduced, and the duties on 123 others abolished.¹⁵

In 1860 duties were taken off all articles except those which came under 26 generic denominations, of which 10 (beer, cards, chicory, dice, essence of spruce, hops, malt, paper, vinegar and plate) were for countervailing duties of excise; the duties on corks and hats were to disappear at fixed dates, and the duties on the remaining 14 articles were retained for fiscal purposes. The duty on wood, over which there had been much discussion, was brought down to a single rate of 1s. per ton¹⁶ and was abolished in 1866.¹⁷ namely : beer, playing cards, chicory, cocoa, chloroform, coffee, corn (duty of 1s. per qr. altered to 3*d.* per cwt. in 1864,¹ and abolished in 1869²), dice (abolished 1867³), essence of spruce, fruit, hops (abolished in 1862⁴), malt (abolished 1880⁵), pepper (abolished 1866⁶), plate (abolished 1890⁷), ships (abolished 1866⁸), spirits, sugar (abolished 1874⁹, reimposed 1901¹⁰), tea, tobacco, varnish, vinegar (abolished 1880¹¹), wine and wood (abolished 1866¹²).

By 1862, therefore, the only import duties left were those on the following articles,¹⁸

At the end of the century the articles on which duties were imposed were beer, playing cards, chicory, cocoa, coffee, fruit, spirits, tea, tobacco, and wine.¹³ In 1901 a duty was reimposed on sugar and on various kinds of confectionery, sweets and sauces containing sugar.¹⁴ A small duty on corn, imposed in 1902, was repealed in 1903,¹⁵ and a duty on motor spirit was levied in 1909.¹⁶ In 1915 new duties were placed upon cinematograph films, clocks and watches, motors and musical instruments.¹⁷

With regard to export duties, there was an ad valorem duty of a half per cent. imposed in 1819¹⁸ which was taken off articles subject to other export duty in 1828.¹⁹ Special export duties had also been imposed at various times on coals, cinders, culm, rabbit and hare skins, wool and woollen manufactures.²⁰ In 1844 these duties on wool and skins were repealed²¹ and in 1850 the duties on coal, culm and cinders were abolished,²² leaving only the half per cent. ad valorem duty, which was not worth the collection. A duty on the export of coal imposed in 1901 was abolished in 1906.²³

Coastwise duties on coals, slate and stone were abolished in 1831,²⁴ and bounties on cordage of spun yarn,²⁵ linen and sail cloth,²⁶ were repealed in 1832.

Details of the imposition of duties in the more important articles are given hereunder :—

CORN.

The history of the corn duties has been traced in the earlier volume, so that it will suffice here to give a brief summary of the Acts under which the rates of duty were from time to time changed.

In 1815 corn meal and flour might at all times be imported and warehoused without payment of duty, but could not be used for home consumption until the average price per quarter was at or above the following sums, and then duty free :—

Wheat, from North American Colonies, 67*s.*, from other places, 80*s.*; rye, peas, and beans, from North American Colonies, 44*s.*, from other places, 53*s.*; barley, beer or bigg, from North American Colonies, 33*s.*, from other places, 40*s.*; and oats from North American Colonies, 22*s.*, from other places, 27*s.*²⁷

In 1822 the average prices per quarter of British corn, at which imported corn could be entered for home consumption, was reduced as follows :—

In 1825 there was an abatement of duty owing to the distress at the time, and wheat was entered for home consumption, whatever the average prices of British corn, on payment of a duty of 5s. per quarter.¹

In 1827 the average prices and duties were again altered. For corn imported from a foreign country.—When the average prices were as follows: for wheat from 62s. to 63s. the duty was 20s. 8d. per imperial quarter; for barley from 33s. to 34s. the duty was 12s. 4d.; for oats from 25s. to 26s. the duty was 9s. 3d., and for rye, peas and beans from 36s. to 37s. the duty was 15s. 6d. For each shilling rise above or fall below the average price the duty was decreased or increased by 2s. for wheat and 1s. 6d. for other sorts of corn. When the price was at or above 72s. for wheat, 41s. for barley, 31s. for oats, 46s. for rye, peas and beans, the duty was 1s. a quarter. For corn, the produce of British possessions out of Europe.—When the average prices were as follows: for wheat 67s., the duty was 5s. per imperial quarter; for barley, 34s., the duty was 2s. 6d.; for oats, 25s., the duty was 2s.; for rye, peas and beans, 41s., the duty was 3s. When the prices exceeded these sums the duty was 6d. per quarter.

In 1828 the principle whereby corn for home consumption was allowed to be entered at all times upon the payment of duties governed by the average weekly prices of corn, was again applied. For corn imported from a foreign country.—When the average price of wheat was from 66s. to 67s. per quarter the duty was 20s. 8d. a quarter, and gradually decreased until the price was at or above 73s., when the duty was 1s. For barley the average price was from 33s. to 34s. per quarter, at which the duty was 12s. 4d. a quarter, to be reduced by 1s. 6d. for each rise of 1s. in price. For oats, the average price was from 25s. to 26s., when the duty was 9s. 3d.; and for rye, peas and beans the average price was from 36s. to 37s., when the duty was 15s. 6d. and gradually decreased in like manner. As the prices decreased below the standard prices, the duty similarly increased. For corn from British possessions out of Europe.—For wheat, when the average price was under 67s. the duty was 5s. a quarter, and when above 67s. it was 6d.; for barley, when the average price was under 34s. the duty was 2s. 6d., and if above, 6d.; for oats, when the price was under 25s., the duty was 2s., and when above, 6d.; for rye, peas and beans, when the price was under 41s., the duty was 3s., and if above, 6d.²

In 1842 the standard prices and duties were revised. For foreign wheat the standard price was lowered to 51s. under which the duty was 20s., and the duty was decreased by 1s. as the price increased by the same sum till the price reached 73s. when the duty was 1s. for that price and upwards. In the same way when the price of barley was under 26s., the duty was 11s., decreasing gradually to 1s. when the price reached 37s. and upwards. For oats the standard price was 19s. and the duty 8s., decreasing in the same way to 1s. when the price reached 27s. and upwards. For rye, peas and beans the standard price was under 30s. when the duty was 11s. 6d., decreasing to 1s. when the price touched 42s. and upwards. For corn from British possessions: for wheat the standard price was fixed at under 55s. when the duty was 5s., decreasing to 1s. when the price was 58s. and upwards. For barley the standard price was under 28s. and the duty 2s. 6d., decreasing to 1s. when the price was 31s. and upwards. For oats the standard price was under 22s. when the duty was 2s., decreasing to 6d. when the price reached 23s. and upwards. For rye, peas and beans the standard price was under 30s. when the duty was 3s., decreasing to 6d. when the duty reached 34s. and upwards.¹

In 1843, in consideration of the imposition by Canada of a duty of 3s. a quarter on wheat imported from places other than British possessions the duty on Canadian wheat was reduced to 1s. a quarter.²

In 1846 the standard prices and duties were again altered. For foreign corn the duty on wheat was 10s. when the price was under 48s., the duty decreasing shilling by shilling till the price reached 53s. and upwards, when the rate was 4s. The duty on barley, beer or bigg, rye, peas and beans was 5s. when the price for barley was under 26s., the duty then decreasing until the price reached 31s. and upwards, when the duty was 2s. The duty on oats was 4s. when the price was under 18s., decreasing to 1s. 6d. when the price reached 22s. and upwards. The duty on corn from British possessions then became a fixed duty of 1s. a quarter on wheat, barley, beer or bigg, oats, rye, peas and beans, and on meal 4½d. a cwt.³

In 1849 the duty of 1s. a quarter on all corn and 4½d. a cwt. on meal came into operation;³ and the 1s. duty on corn was changed as a matter of convenience to the equivalent rate of 3d. a cwt. in 1864.⁴

In 1869 the duties on corn were entirely repealed⁵ and no duty has been imposed since except one of a shilling a quarter placed on it by Sir Michael Hicks-Beach in his Budget of April 1902,⁶ which was levied from 15th April 1902 until 30th June 1903, and then abandoned by the succeeding Chancellor of the Exchequer.

SUGAR.

The various phases of the sugar tariff have been dealt with in the text of Vol. I.² Sugar was divided into the main divisions of unrefined sugar and refined sugar and sugar candy. In 1815 the duties levied were as follows :—Unrefined sugar : British West India (brown or muscovado), 1l. 10s. per cwt. ; East India and Mauritius, 1l. 17s. per cwt. ; foreign (brown or muscovado), 3l. 3s. ; Refined sugar : foreign refined sugar, 8l. 8s. 4d. ; foreign brown sugar candy, 4l. 16s. (increased to 5l. 12s. in 1819) ; foreign white sugar candy, 7l. 13s. 4d. The rates of the British grown sugar varied from time to time, but the other rates continued the same till 1840 when 5 per cent. was added to the duties. In 1844 a special rate (1l. 15s. 8½d. per cwt.) was imposed on sugar grown in foreign countries and not the produce of slave labour, which was very little above British grown unrefined sugar and nearly half that on other foreign grown sugar. In 1845 the system was adopted of classing unrefined sugar from various countries, under equal and not equal to brown or white clayed sugar ; and refined sugars, under equal and unequal to double refined sugar, and white and brown sugar candy. In 1854 all sugar of whatsoever origin was taken under one series of rates, unrefined sugar equal to white clayed, not equal to white clayed and not equal to brown clayed (subdivided in 1864 into equal to brown muscovado and not equal to brown muscovado) and refined sugar, the duties varying from 1l. to 8s. 2d. In 1867 unrefined sugar was under a new system divided into four classes, the duties imposed being from 11s. 3d. to 8s. These duties were reduced to half in 1870 and halved again in 1873, but in 1874 all duties on sugar were repealed.³

In 1901 a customs duty was reimposed on sugar at the rate of 4s. 2d. per cwt. on sugar of a polarization exceeding 98° and 2s. per cwt. on sugar of a polarization not exceeding 76° with intermediate rates for sugar polarizing from 76° to 98°. In 1915 the rate was increased to 9s. 4d. on sugar of a polarization exceeding 98° with corresponding increases in other rates.

WINE.

Under Pitt's Act of 1787 the rates of customs duties on wines were charged according to the countries of production¹ and before 1803 the rates at the out-ports were lower than those at London.² In 1805 the following rates per imperial gallon, including both customs and excise duties, were levied. On wines from the Cape, Portugal, the Azores, Spain (white wine) and the Canaries the duty was 9s. 1¼d.; from Madeira, 9s. 2½d.; from Spain (red wine), 10s. 3d.; from the Rhine, 11s. 3d.; from France, 13s. 8½d.; and on other sorts of wine, 9s. 1¼d. These rates continued till 1825, except that in 1813 the duty on Spanish wine, both red and white, was made 9s. 1¼d., that on Cape wine was reduced to 3s. 0½d., and in 1819 the duties on French wines were increased to 13s. 9d. and on Rhineish wines to 11s. 3½d.³ In 1825 wine ceased to be subject to a duty of excise, and the customs duties then and until 1831 became—for Cape wines, 2s. 5d.; for wines from Portugal, Madeira, the Azores, Spain, the Canaries, and the Rhine, 4s. 9¾d. (increased to 4s. 10d. in 1826); for wines from France, 7s. 2½d. (increased to 7s. 3d. in 1826), and for other sorts of wine, 4s. 9¾d. (increased to 4s. 10d. in 1826).⁴ In 1831 the wine duties were simplified, and a duty of 5s. 6d. a gallon was levied on all foreign wines and 2s. 9d. on Cape wines.⁵ In 1840 the duties were increased by 5 per cent., bringing the two rates to 5s. 9½d. and 2s. 10½d. respectively,⁶ at which rates they continued till 1860, except that from 1849 to 1853 a duty of 2s. 9d. was imposed on wines from British possessions other than the Cape. From 28th February 1860 to the end of that year, in accordance with the Commercial Treaty with France, the duty on all foreign wines was reduced to 3s. a gallon, while the duty on wines from British possessions remained at 2s. 10½d.⁷

On 1st January 1861 the modern system of charging the duty on wines according to an alcoholic test was introduced. At first the rates were 1s. a gallon on wine containing 18 degrees of proof spirit recorded by Sykes's hydrometer; 1s. 9d. a gallon for wine containing 26 degrees of spirit; 2s. 5d. a gallon for wine containing 40 degrees of spirit, and 2s. 11d. a gallon for wine containing 45 degrees of spirit, while wine imported in bottles and containing less than 40 degrees was charged at 2s. 5d. a gallon.⁸ In 1862 the scale of charges was simplified by having only two rates, namely, of 1s. for wine up to 26 degrees of proof spirit (raised to 30 degrees in 1886⁹) and 2s. 6d. for wine up to 42 degrees, with an extra charge above that strength of 3d. on each degree of spirit, while the charge on wines in bottles up to 40 degrees was raised to 2s. 6d. a gallon.¹⁰ In 1888 an additional duty was imposed on sparkling wines at the rate of 1s. 3d. per dozen bottles for each half-pint capacity of bottle, but this was only in force for three months.¹¹ In the same year a duty of 2s. 6d. a gallon was charged on sparkling wine imported in bottles, but if the value of the wine was less than 15s. the duty was to be reduced to 1s. a gallon,¹² but in 1892 a fixed duty of 2s. a gallon was substituted.¹³ In 1899 the rate for wine not exceeding 30 degrees of proof spirit was increased to 1s. 3d. a gallon, and that not exceeding 42 degrees of proof spirit to 3s. a gallon, still wine in bottles was to be charged an additional shilling a gallon and sparkling wines 2s. 6d. a gallon, which are the duties imposed at the present time.¹⁴

SPIRITS.

At the end of the Napoleonic wars the rates of duties on spirits differed in Great Britain and Ireland, that for the latter on foreign spirits being 17s. 3¾d. a gallon as against 11. 2s. 6¾d. for the former. In 1822, however, the rate for Ireland was brought up to that of Great Britain. The duties on rum or colonial spirit were for England 8s. 7d. in 1847, 8s. 2d. in 1848; for Scotland, 4s. 5d. in 1847, 4s. in 1848 and 8s. 2d. in 1855; for Ireland, 3s. 5d. in 1847, 3s. in 1848 and 6s. 4d. in 1855.¹⁵ Under Cobden's treaty with France, in 1860 brandies and spirits from France were to be admitted to this country subject only to a duty equal to the excise duty on English home-made spirit, which was then at 7s. 10d., with the addition of a surtax. The surtax was at first at 2d., but later the duty on foreign spirit was made 8s. 6d., and eventually, in the same year, was fixed at 10s. 5d., while the duty on Colonial spirit was made 10s. 2d. and the excise duty on home-made spirit 10s.¹ In 1881 the rates for Colonial and foreign spirits were made equal at 10s. 4d. and a single rate has since continued.²

An additional duty of 1s. per proof gallon was imposed on spirits imported in bottles in 1899, and under the Finance Act of 1915 an additional duty of from 1s. to 2s. 5d. per gallon was levied on spirits warehoused for less than three years.³

TOBACCO.

The revenue law relating to tobacco was changed in 1790 from a customs duty of 1s. 3d. per lb. to a rate of 9d. for excise and 6d. for customs duty.⁵ A new Act was passed in 1840, under which the manufacturer, taking advantage of the diminished supervision, adulterated the tobacco.⁶ A new law, passed in 1842, to avoid this evil, brought about a great increase in smuggling.⁷ It was stated in evidence before Royal Commissions in 1830 and 1844 that as much tobacco was "smuggled into consumption as pays the duty, but this was remedied by the Act of 1845." Nothing further was done until 1863, when a new principle was devised whereby the rate was regulated according to the amount of moisture contained in the tobacco.⁸ A difference was made between stripped or stemmed tobacco and unstripped or unstemmed in 1904.
